IN THIS ISSUE

KAMALA HARRIS: HOWARD GRAD MAKES HISTORY!

BEYONCE TEAMS WITH PELOTON FOR STUDENTS

WHY TOP US ATHLETES ARE CHOOSING HBCUS

TOP 50 EMPLOYERS FOR HBCU STUDENTS
Inclusion makes us better together.

It’s an exciting time at Best Buy as we take a digital first, customer obsessed approach to our work.

We’re committed to maintaining an inclusive culture that values everyone’s talents, experiences and backgrounds. We invite you to join our mission as we enrich lives through technology.

Retail and corporate opportunities available: bby.me/careers
Follow us: bby.me/twitter | bby.me/linkedin | bby.me/instagram
FEATURES

04 Letter From The Publisher – Will Moss

ON THE COVER

Kamala Harris’ Journey, page 5

TABLE OF CONTENTS

05 Kamala Harris’ Journey
07 Georgia On My Mind
08 Beyonce and Peloton Team Up
11 Top Black Athletes Choosing to Attend HBCUs
12 Tis The Season To Give…To An HBCU
14 Morgan State University Grad
15 Morris Brown College on Track
17 What Can HBCUs Expect Under This New Administration?
20 Top 50 Employers for HBCU Students

PARTNERS:

Best Buy .........................................................2
J.P. Morgan Chase ...........................................6
Sanofi ..............................................................9
Amazon Worldwide Ops ...............................10
Amazon AWS ..................................................13
Walgreens .....................................................16
Wells Fargo ....................................................19
Thermo Fisher Scientific ...............................20
Abbvie .........................................................22
Kroger .........................................................23

CREDITS

PUBLISHER: Will Moss
EDITOR: Kennedy Williams
DESIGNER: Stacy Edwards
CONTRIBUTORS: Kennedy Williams,
Reginald Culpepper

HBCU Connect, LLC
750-Q Cross Pointe Road
Gahanna, OH 43230

Get Connected: www.HBCUCConnect.com
LETTER FROM THE PUBLISHER

Well, we made it to the end of the year! I want to wish everyone a happy holiday season as we look forward to the new year. 2020 has been a handful to say the least. We send prayers out to everyone who has been directly or indirectly affected by the pandemic raging across the country. I hear there’s a new vaccine that is coming out. Let’s hope things continue to trend for the better.

College campuses are still struggling with new pandemic procedures and testing protocols. There is still an air of uncertainty when it comes to your future education. Fortunately, campuses are adapting quickly as many now provide distance learning and online courses so that you can start your college career or continue your college career from the safety of your residence.

Also, just as fortunately, companies are still holding internships for the summertime so that you can get that first-hand experience in the (altered) real world. Many have also adapted to working from home and communicating via Microsoft Teams, Zoom, or other video conferencing software. Even more fortunate, we have a lot of the best internship programs on our web site waiting for someone like you to apply for them. Check them out on our web site HBCUCOnnect.com.

As always, stay safe, stay healthy, and stay informed. We look forward to seeing you persevere!

HBCUCOnnect.COM – Get Connected!

Sincerely,

Will Moss

Will Moss  |  CEO  |  wrmoss@hbcuconnect.com  |  614.864.4446
Well folks, it’s official. Howard University grad Kamala Harris will serve as the next Vice President of the United States, making her the first woman to hold the position and the first Black and Asian American to help lead the country in this capacity.

Harris attended Howard from 1984 to 1986 and studied political science and economics. During her time at the university, she also became a member of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc. After graduating from Howard, Harris returned to her home state to get a law degree from the University of California and began her career as a government official. From her District Attorney position to California’s Attorney General to State Senator, Harris’s passion for being a public servant was always evident.

During her victory speech, Harris talked about the way Black women, and all women, have paved the way for this historic moment saying, “Tonight, I reflect on their struggle, their determination, and the strength of their vision to see what can be unburdened by what has been, and I stand on their shoulders.” As she stood on stage facing the world as the new Vice President-Elect, she proudly declared, “while I may be the first woman in this office, I will not be the last.”
Investing in the black community.
Expanding opportunity for everyone.

Learn more at: www.jpmorganchase.com/abp
This election season will go down in history for many reasons, and it is not even over yet! As if the record number of nationwide early voters was not monumental enough, Georgia, a historically Republican red state, turned Democratic blue when it came to the Presidential election. This momentous state-wide transformation was helmed by Spelman College graduate Stacey Abrams and her organization Fair Fight. Created to increase voter participation and fight voter suppression in Georgia and all over the country, Abrams’ organization has worked to register over 800,000 first time voters in the past two years and has encouraged more Black voters to exercise their right to vote.

While the state has already determined who will be occupying the White House for the next four years, two major races in Georgia remain uncalled. In both Senate races for the state, neither of the four candidates reached a 51% majority, so there will be a runoff in January to determine what two people will be representing GA in the U.S. Senate. Democrat and Morehouse grad Raphael Warnock will face off with Republican, and incumbent Kelly Loeffler will face off in one race. In the other race, Democrat Jon Ossoff will face off with Republican and incumbent David Perdue. Being that these races will determine who holds power in the U.S. Senate, all eyes are on the state of Georgia.

For all of our Georgia readers, be sure to do your part and participate in this election. The runoffs will take place on January 5th.
Are you looking to get rid of your freshman 15? Or shed the effects of your social distancing snacks? Well, Beyonce has got you covered! The Queen Bey has teamed up with popular fitness platform, Peloton to bring a homecoming themed workout to a living room near you. This partnership not only means that Peloton’s workouts will include Beyonce’s hit songs, but it also means that HBCU students will gain access to a fitness service that they may not have been able to afford otherwise.

Through this collaboration, Peloton will be offering free two-year membership for students at 10 HBCUs across the country. Through this membership, students will have access to the full Peloton fitness library.

So, tell me, are you ready to get in formation?
As a company, we respect cultural differences and depend on the diversity and talents of each other to be more innovative, effective and competitive.

Between us we represent more than 145 different nationalities. Come join a diverse mix of people, who genuinely believe in our mission to help people around the world live healthier lives.

THIS IS OUR SANOFI. DISCOVER YOURS.

jobs.sanofi.us/university-us
Internship & Full-Time Roles we are hiring for:

Area Manager
EHS
Finance
Loss Prevention
HR
Engineering
Program Management
Customer Service Manager

www.hbcuconnect.com/amazon
Currently accepting resumes for 2022 Internships and Full-time opportunities!
IT IS NO SECRET that top Black athletes have often chosen to attend predominately white Division I schools for the sake of more exposure, opportunity, and funding, but it looks like that trend is turning in favor of HBCUs. Several top recruits for a range of different sports are choosing to attend Historically Black institutions.

One of the most sought-after basketball five-star recruits in the nation, Makur Maker, turned down several Division I schools and decided to attend Howard University. In a tweet explaining his decision, Maker said, “I need to make the HBCU movement real, so that others will follow.”

Top volleyball recruit Colleen Temple also decided to attend Howard University instead of the University of Hawaii where she previously committed. When asked why she ultimately picked Howard over Hawaii, Temple told HBCU Gameday, “Over the past few months I’ve done a lot of reflection, and I know that Hawaii is a top tier school, but I just couldn’t see myself anywhere but an HBCU. And to me, Howard fulfills everything that I could want from a school. That’s including athletics, academics, and location.”

Four-star recruit Isaiah Bolden recently decided to transfer from Florida State to Jackson State. When asked why he decided to transfer, Bolden said, “I want to be part of the change. It’s going to take more than me to make the change, but at least I can help toward making the change. I’m taking on the responsibility to show recruits and transfers that you can come to an HBCU and get to the league. Me being a part of that change is a big thing for me.”

Four-star basketball recruit Se’Quoia Allmond also decided that Jackson State is the school for her. In an interview with Memphis Commercial Appeal, Allmond said, “I like to start trends. And it might not be today or tomorrow, or even this year, but eventually, people are going to start catching on and moving to HBCUs so that’s the plan.”
Lincoln University and Elizabeth City State University received a $50,000 endowment from Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc.

Basketball superstar Charles Barkley pledged $1 million to Tuskegee University.

Philanthropist MacKenzie Scott donated $20 million each to Hampton University, Howard University, Morehouse College, Spelman College, Tuskegee University, and Xavier University of Louisiana.

Robert F. Smith, billionaire and CEO of Vista Equity Partners donated $50 million to the Student Freedom Initiative, a charity that helps HBCU students with student loans and debt.

Superstar rapper 2 Chains announced last month that he would be launching a program to help HBCU students who double as business owners. In a video posted to his social media platforms, the Virginia State graduate said, “If you are an HBCU student and you currently have a business that’s up and running, I created the Money Maker Fund. I would like to invest into your business, your idea.”
Our workdays are just different.

Amazon Web Services is a secure cloud services platform, offering compute power, database storage, content delivery, and other functionality to help businesses scale and grow. Millions of customers currently leverage our cloud products and solutions to build sophisticated applications with increased flexibility, scalability, and reliability.

AWS isn’t a start-up, but that doesn’t stop us from acting like one. We set out every day to innovate and disrupt the status quo. We pursue unexpected paths and try to see things differently. We don’t just sit back and watch the world change; we’re the ones changing it. And we’re on the hunt for curious and inventive builders who want to join a company where every day is full of challenging and meaningful work.

Sound like you? Then come build the future with us.
You know the holiday season is right around the corner when you start hearing Christmas music playing in every store and when there is a Christmas movie playing on every other channel. If you are looking for a Black centered Christmas story and want to support a fellow HBCU graduate, be sure to check out David E. Talbert’s new film Jingle Jangle: A Christmas Journey on Netflix.

The film tells the story of an eccentric toymaker, his adventurous granddaughter, and a magical invention that has the power to change their lives forever. With a star-studded cast featuring Forest Whitaker, Keegan-Michael Key, Anika Noni Rose, and Phylicia Rashad, the performances do not disappoint.

During a Q&A with Morgan State University students, alumni, and staff, Talbert said, “I wanted it to be something for everybody. It’ll be out for Thanksgiving. That’s when we all get together to tear up some candied yams, collard greens, and ham. I wanted it to be something where the grandmother, the mother, and the kids, and everybody could watch as a family.”

From the storyline down to the soundtrack, Jingle Jangle will undoubtedly get you in the holiday spirit. Be sure to check out the film, which is now playing on Netflix.
Morris Brown President, Dr. Kevin James, recently announced that the college’s application with the Transnational Association of Christian Colleges and Schools (TRACS) had been approved.

After being founded in 1881, Morris Brown College was just one of the thriving HBCU campuses that made up the Atlanta University Center Consortium (AUCC), a core group of neighboring HBCUs that included Clark Atlanta University, Morehouse College, and Spelman College.

In 2002, however, Morris Brown was forced to withdraw from the AUC following the institution losing its accreditation. Since then, Morris Brown staff, alumni, and fellow members of the AUC have been working to get the school back to where it once was.

In a statement to The Associated Press (AP), President James said, “This is history in the making. Morris Brown intends to become the first HBCU to earn its accreditation back twenty years after losing it. When Morris Brown achieves candidacy status, hopefully by April 2021, it will give the college all the rights of a fully accredited college, which allows students to receive federal financial aid. Additionally, student degrees will be recognized by other schools and/or employers.”
Jump start a meaningful career.

A career that makes a difference in big ways and small. In quiet moments and bursting celebrations. Soothing sniffles and solving everyday challenges. Because we know you’ve got what it takes.

All you need is a place to start. In one of our internships or development programs, you’ll take the paper writing and test taking you’ve already aced and put that knowledge to work. Here, you’ll collaborate with mentors, make big decisions and impact our business, supply chain and the communities we touch. Not bad for a first gig, right?

Get started in our corporate offices, distribution centers, retail locations or pharmacies, at jobs.walgreens.com/students
During his campaign, Joe Biden and Kamala Harris repeatedly spoke about their plans for college students and graduates and, more specifically, about those who attended HBCUs. According to his higher education plan, here is what we can expect under this upcoming administration:

1. Make Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs), Tribal Colleges and Universities (TCUs), and under-resourced Minority Serving Institutions (MSIs) more affordable for their students by investing $18 billion in grants to these four-year schools, equivalent to up to two years of tuition per low-income and middle-class student, including DREAMers and students who transfer to a four-year HBCU, TCU, or MSI from a tuition-free community college. He will then invest additional funds in private, non-profit HBCUs, TCUs, and under-resourced MSIs, so they are not undermined by the Biden proposal to make four-year public colleges and universities tuition-free.

2. Invest in the diverse talent at HBCUs, TCUs, and MSIs to solve the country’s most pressing problems by investing $10 billion to create at least 200 new centers of excellence that serve as research incubators and connect students underrepresented in fields critical to our nation’s future – including fields tackling climate change, globalization, inequality, health disparities, and cancer – to learning and career opportunities.
3 Build the high-tech labs and facilities and digital infrastructure needed for learning, research, and innovation at HBCUs, TCUs, and MSIs by investing $20 billion in infrastructure for HBCUs, TCUs, and MSIs to build the physical research facilities and labs urgently needed to deliver on the country’s research and development, to update and modernize deteriorating facilities.

4 Provide support to continuously improve the value of HBCUs, TCUs, and MSIs by investing $10 billion in programs that increase enrollment, retention, completion, and employment rates.

5 Expand career pathways for graduates of HBCUs, TCUs, and MSIs in areas that meet national priorities, including building a diverse pipeline of public-school teachers by investing $5 billion in graduate programs in teaching, health care, and STEM and will develop robust internship and career pipelines at major research agencies, including Department of Energy National Laboratories, National Institutes of Health, National Science Foundation, and the Department of Defense.

6 Triple and make permanent the capacity-building and student support for HBCUs, TCUs, and MSIs in Title III and Title V of the Higher Education Act. These funds serve as a lifeline to under-resourced HBCUs, TCUs, and MSIs year over year, ensuring that the most vulnerable students have the support they need to succeed.

7 Reduce disparities in funding for HBCUs, TCUs, and MSIs. When inequities exist between HBCUs, TCUs, and MSIs and similar non-HBCU, TCU, MSI colleges, federal agencies, and states will be required to publish robust rationale and show improvements in eliminating disparities year over year.
We’re stronger together.

We believe there’s even greater power in working together. Because when we combine our unique abilities as a team, our strength multiplies. Every day across 42 countries, our team members collaborate using their collective skills to better serve our company and our customers.

Join our team to learn, grow, and excel in your career. To learn more about undergraduate and graduate opportunities, visit www.wellsfargojobs.com/university-programs where you will find program information, application dates, and where you can join the Talent Community for updates and job alerts. Indicate how you found us by selecting "college & early career" category, then selecting "other" under "Where did we meet you," and specifying HBCU Connect.

Wells Fargo is a proud sponsor of HBCU Connect

Relevant military experience is considered for veterans and transitioning service men and women. Wells Fargo is an Affirmative Action and Equal Opportunity Employer, Minority/Female/Disabled/ Veteran/ Gender Identity/Sexual Orientation.

© 2020 Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. All rights reserved. Member FDIC.
1. Microsoft
2. Amazon
3. JPMorgan Chase
4. AMD
5. Walgreens
6. U.S. Coast Guard
7. Wells Fargo
8. Best Buy
9. Nintendo of America
10. X, The Moonshot Factory
11. Sage
12. Sanofi
13. Danaher
14. Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory
15. Fivetran
16. VHB
17. CBRE
18. Pfizer
19. Vanderbilt Health
20. 84.51
21. Abbvie
22. FBI
23. Insight Enterprises
24. INROADS
25. Dick’s Sporting Goods
26. Dot Foods
27. Mastery Charter Schools
28. Capgemini
29. Intel
30. Five9
31. Hearst
32. NextEra Energy
33. Motorola Solutions
34. Kroger
35. The Washington Center
36. TempurSealy International
37. Cardinal Health
38. Boston Preparatory Charter Public School
39. Nestle
40. Fidelity Investments
41. Touro University
42. Verizon
43. W.W. Norton & Company
44. Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center
45. CSU San Bernardino
46. Evergreen Community College
47. DSW Inc.
48. GlaxoSmithKline
49. Motlow State Community College
50. Azusa Pacific
Making a remarkable difference starts with you

At AbbVie, we combine our science, expertise and passion to solve today’s most pressing health challenges. We work to make a remarkable impact on people’s lives, and we believe that we are at our best when we listen to all voices and invite all perspectives. Equality, diversity and inclusion are fundamental to our Principles, and we’re proud that our efforts are continually recognized.

See what kind of difference you can make: Visit abbvie.com/careers

AbbVie alumni from Howard University and Florida A&M University.
Data Science is our DNA

That’s what we do at 84.51° — we gather and analyze data from more than 60 million U.S. households. With our unparalleled customer data and predictive analytics capabilities, we deliver personalized marketing strategies and ensure the best experience for customers of The Kroger Co. and more than 300 consumer-packaged-goods companies.

We have many career opportunities with positions in:

- DATA SCIENCE AND RESEARCH
- CONSULTING
- DATA AND SOFTWARE ENGINEERING
- ADVERTISING AND MEDIA
- PRODUCT MANAGEMENT

For more information, check out our current open positions in our CINCINNATI and CHICAGO offices, and apply online at: 8451.com/career-paths

APPLICATION PERIOD BEGINS SEPTEMBER 1, 2020 FOR ALL 2021 UNIVERSITY OPENINGS.
MY WORK IS A STORY OF POSSIBILITIES.

Our stories of belonging, connection, and impact unite us. What story will you tell?

Join a team where your unique talents impact the world!

Karima
Sr Manager, Client Services Projects

Scan QR code and explore our opportunities at jobs.thermofisher.com

Thermo Fisher Scientific is an EEO/Affirmative Action Employer.